Tarryn Reeves is a USA Today best-selling author, book coach, publisher, freelance writer, ghostwriter and speaker whose work has been featured in Forbes, Newsweek, the Los Angeles Times, World News Network, Thrive Global and more.

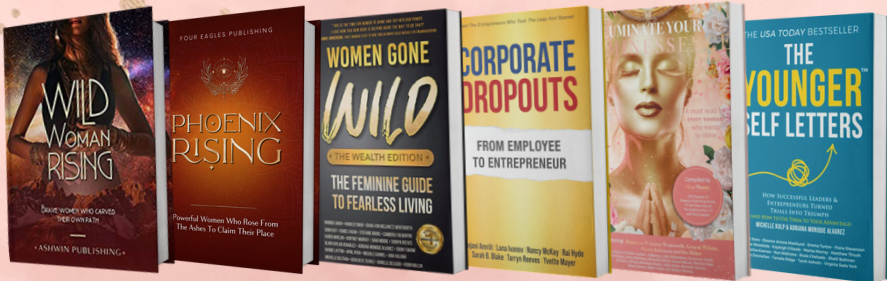

A renowned speaker, Reeves teaches the power of storytelling to connect and move people. She knows exactly what it takes to craft books that sell and sell readers on their authors' value propositions.

Whether teaching the skills to write, publish and market books or sharing her own gut-wrenching personal story, Tarryn speaks from experience in her real, raw and vulnerable style, engaging the room and touching the hearts of all within it.

Tarryn, sometimes referred to as the "Book Midwife" or "Book Yoda", together with her team, works with high-level entrepreneurs to create best-selling books that act as marketing tools and authority builders that grow businesses and create ripple effects of impact across the globe.
